"The entry into the Norfolk market is an integral step in our short and long-term expansion plans for DriveTime," said Jon Ehlinger, general counsel and vice president of public relations for DriveTime.

"We're working to improve our facilities with strategic relocations in tandem with our aggressive growth efforts, and we are on track to meet our goal of expanding our business to 90 stores nationwide by the end of the year," he continued. "We're extremely excited to be in Norfolk. It's a great community, and we think an ideal fit for our business."

DriveTime currently has 81 stores nationwide.
